COVID-19 community support

Dignity Health hospitals and caregivers are on the front lines working to save lives and keep us healthy as the world confronts the COVID-19 pandemic. Glendale Memorial has launched crisis prevention plans and remains committed to you and our community partners during these uncertain times. Since the beginning of the pandemic response, Glendale Memorial Health Foundation has received an overwhelming amount of support from community members and local businesses. Thousands of personal protective equipment (PPE) items have been donated on behalf of several organizations for the use of our frontline caregivers. In addition to donated PPE items we have also received over 4,000 free meals for Glendale Memorial health care workers.
